Ammo plant's program provides possible fixes for English job problem

BY DENA BISNETTE

Supplies of adequately trained workers for new industrial efforts exist, but not always where the industry happens to be.

That problem is common right now in England, according to Patrick Hughes, an English visitor to Mississippi who made a stop at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant Tuesday.

Hughes works for England's Department of Employment, the equivalent of the U.S. Department of Labor. Under a program co-sponsored by the Department of Employment and a grant program known as the German Marshall Fund, he is spending nine weeks in the United States looking at answers to England's labor problems.

He will stop in Maryland, Colorado, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia and Arizona before his tour is over.

When he contacted Mississippi's Department of Economic Development, Jane Black, a staff member who is also a member of the Governor's Rapid Response Team working with the programs for workers from the soon-to-be-closed ammunition plant, suggested he visit the Mason-Chamberlain Inc.-operated facility.

The problem that the English face is much different from that faced by the plant workers, where only a small proportion of the employees will be able to retain their jobs when the facility is placed in mothballs later this year.

Land dispute still unsettled after city council meeting

BY TRACI BONNEY

The question remains: Whose land is it, anyway?

An attempt to settle an ongoing property dispute failed at Tuesday's Bay St. Louis city council meeting when a vote of two for, two against and one abstention tabled a motion for the council to adopt an ordinance abandoning some of its right-of-way on 10th Street.

Charles Delk, owner of ABC Rental, has put on hold plans to expand his business until the problem is settled. He claims the property in dispute, which is behind his property, is his.

However, the council contends the land belongs to the city. The disagreement centers around discrepancies in the findings of surveys contracted by the city and those contracted by Delk and other property owners on 10th Street.

At this time, the council is considering solutions to the problem.

Other matters addressed at the meeting included:

- the naming of Robert Weaver, a worker at St. Stanislaus, as the Bay St. Louis representative to the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency;

- an agreement on the council's part to consider additional funding for the Community

Action Agency to resume the GED training program for Bay St. Louis residents;

- the opening of bids on supplies and equipment for city maintenance and improvement;

- the approval of previously opened bids on supplies;

- the establishment of a petty cash fund for the mayor's office;

- approval of advertisement for the Crab Festival;

- approval for attendance of conferences and expositions by council members and mayor's office staff members.

The council recessed until April 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Apparent school car shooting is focus of local investigation

BY TRACI BONNEY

Two rather unusual matters discussed at the meeting of the Hancock County school board Monday included a March 26 break-in at Hancock North Central Elementary School and the apparent shooting of the driver education car at Hancock North Central High School.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputy James Ladner said both incidents still are under investigation and the department has no suspects for either at this time.

The break-in involved the robbery of about $25 from a filing cabinet locker, Ladner said.

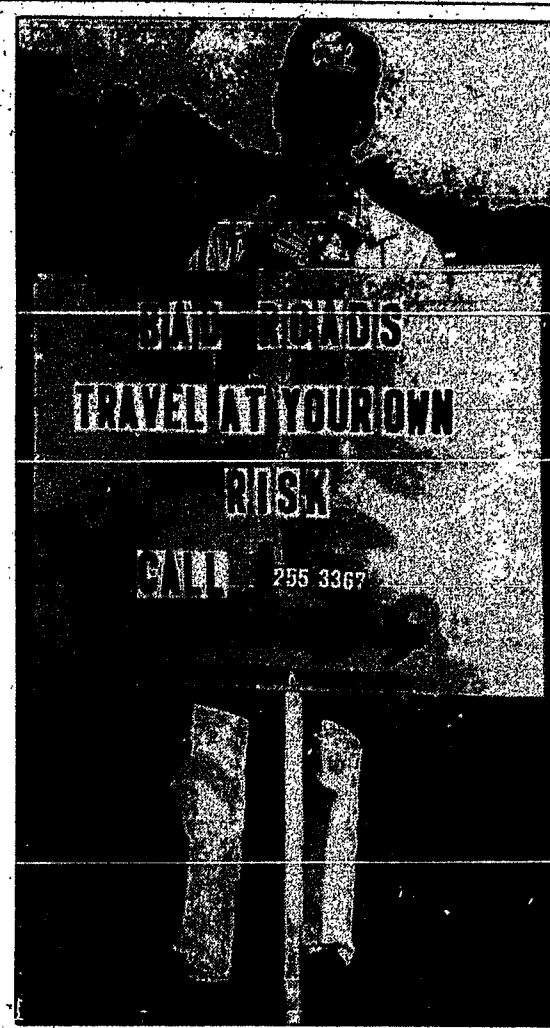

The car vandalism occurred while the vehicle was at the driver education teacher's house, Ladner said.

"Someone has fired a bullet into the car. It entered at the front part of the hood, traveled to the back of the hood, ricocheted and fell out under the car.

"It seems a little odd to me that anyone would shoot the car, unless it was shot accidentally."

Ladner explained that the car was facing a wooded area and there is a possibility that a stray shot from a hunter may have been the cause of the damage.

Road conditions irk county man

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Clyde Taylor has spent the past several mornings and afternoons waving to passing vehicles on Highway 603—to attract attention to the condition of roads in his neighborhood.

Stationed at the end of Lagan Street next to his yellow antique truck, Taylor displays a homemade sign cautioning motorists to "travel at their own risk."

He has complained to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, who "promised to black-top Lagan 12 years ago" he said, and have yet to make that a reality.

"If these roads were in Bay St. Louis or Waveland, these politicians would be out of office," Taylor said. "You just can't visualize the road conditions we live with. The situation has gotten so deplorable that peoples' cars are being torn up."

Taylor reports getting "thumbs up" gestures from passing motorists, and feels his neighbors are in agreement with his complaints. His wife is circulating a petition demanding improved road conditions.

Resident Judy Arriola concurred, adding occasionally vehicles have to be pulled out of some of the deeper holes.

The streets involved, which are all in Beat 5, include Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York, Arkansas, Tennessee and others, according to Taylor.

Supervisors reject bids for mowing contractor

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, after agreeing to reject bids for grasscutting along county roads, has decided to continue trying to establish an in-house program.

According to Hancock County Maintenance Superintendent Sam Cuevas, the board actually did not know what kind of price the bids on grasscutting along 202 miles of road would provide.

The bids, opened Friday, were taken under advisement until Monday's meeting to give Cuevas time to consider them. It was he who recommended at Monday's meeting that the board reject them.

Both bids received were in the $60,000 range.

"We had never done this before," Cuevas said. "We had no idea they might come in that high." Cuevas has been trying to set up a program of systematic grass-cutting for rights-of-way and other county property and explained that his department does have the manpower and equipment available.

Due to the expenses involved, the board of supervisors agreed to consider the option of contracting the mowing work.

"What I want to do is start at the east end, cut all the way to the west end and go back and start all over again," Cuevas explained.

In the past, the county has not had a systematic program for grasscutting but went on an as-needed basis, as far as he knows, Cuevas said. He has served as county maintenance superintendent for a little more than a year.

When he tried to start the program last year, one of the results was $25,000 in equipment repairs.

"We would still prefer to do it

Recycling work to begin at Kiln convenience center

BY DENA BISNETTE

Gulf Coast Recycling is planning to operate a buy-back station at the Hancock County Convenience Center next to the central maintenance barn in Kiln.

County Maintenance Superintendent Sam Cuevas said the new recycling effort will open Saturday, April 14, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Plans call for expanding the operation to two Saturdays each month in May.

Gulf Coast Recycling will be accepting the same items as at its center in Waveland, which takes aluminum, glass, plastic, paper and cardboard.

"The main reason we're able to do this is that Gulf Coast Recycling is a nonprofit organization," Cuevas explained.

"We're also hoping to expand our recycling efforts in the future, when our landfill is open. Everything we keep out of there adds to its lifespan."

Currently, the county is still working to obtain all the necessary permits for a landfill at Standard, which Cuevas said should be useable for 22 to 25 years even without recycling programs to save space in the facility.

The county's previous landfill, located on land leased from NASA in the Catahoula community, closed at the end of

Hancock North Central high school may move to new school this year

BY TRACI BONNEY

Hancock North Central's new high school may be ready for use by the beginning of the 1990-'91 school year.

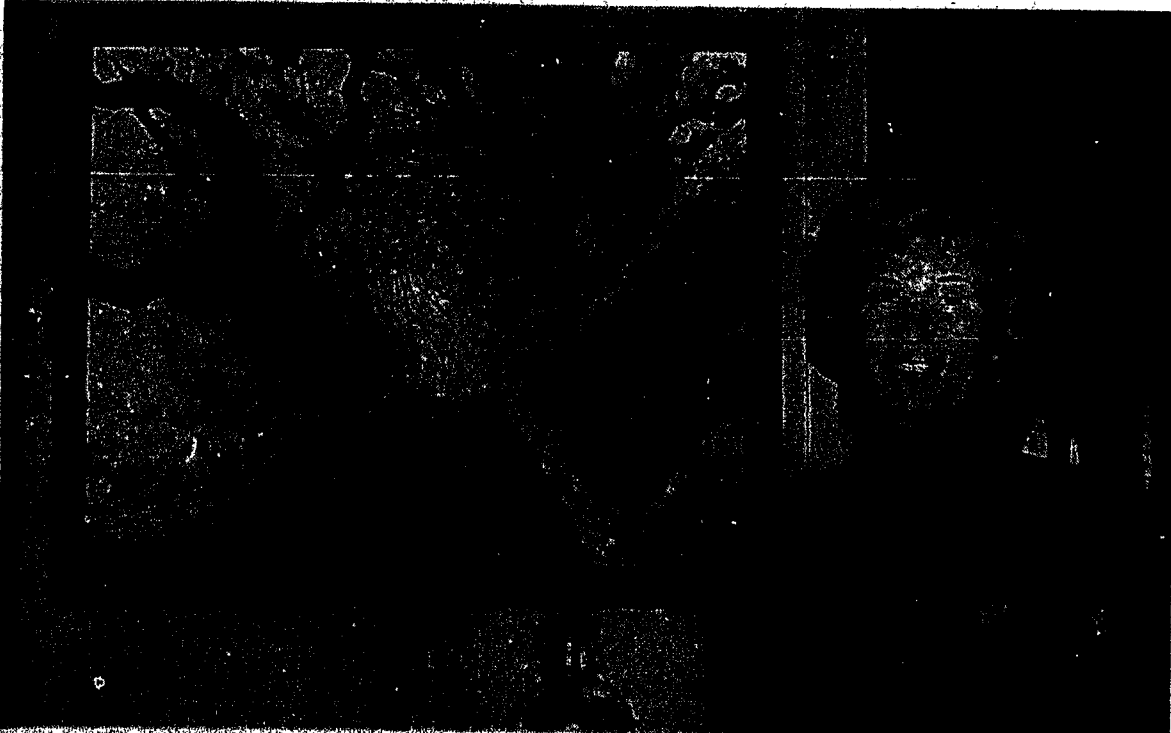

The Hancock County School board heard encouraging reports at its Monday meeting concerning the new buildings for the high school, according to assistant superintendent Eddie Danzey.

"We're anticipating students being there at the beginning of the next school year," he said. "Right now, most of the work to be done is on inside walls and finishing touches."

When the students do move into the new high school, the school board hopes to have in place a new satellite dish for the school's Channel One program. Channel One, through which students are taught foreign languages and advanced classes from University of Mississippi faculty members, has been in operation for the past year.

Danzey said the school board is requesting that another satellite dish be installed at the new high school and the one currently in use be left at the old building when it is renovated for use as an elementary school.

NADINE STAMM, local artist and owner of Nadie Arts, painted "Barred Owl in Live Oak" using a large live oak tree in the yard of Mrs. Joe Pilet and a barred owl currently housed at the Wildlife Rehabilitation and Nature Preservation Society center in Pass Christian. Stamm said she sighted a barred owl, noted its position and contacted WRANPS. Through the use of a disabled owl being cared for at WRANPS and a video camera, she was able to recapture on film the position she'd seen and paint the owl. She spent many hours perched on a ladder in Mrs. Pilet's yard, painting the detail of the tree she chose for a background. (Echo staff photo by Traci Bonney)

My pet peeve — grammar goofs

Everyone has pet peeves, things that irritate the daylight out of them no matter how hard they try to control, conquer or ignore them.

One of my more persistent pet peeves is grammatical errors in print.

I can tolerate spoken errors most of the time. Unless the error is a glaring one, it usually causes me no more consternation than would a mosquito bite.

However, I find it incredibly difficult to endure a printed error, especially one that seems to be an error of ignorance, not simply of bad typing.

I find myself correcting almost everything I read. In fact, I once tossed aside a book I had been reading because the errors were so numerous I couldn't enjoy the story.

I have to admit, some errors — especially typographical ones — result in some amusing reading. For instance, the white pages listing for one Bay St. Louis business reads "Taxidormy by Bob" instead of "Taxidermy by Bob." What, pray tell, is "taxidormy?"

Another set of examples of comical typos can be found in The Complete Book of Bible Trivia by J. Stephen Lang. In a section called "So Many Versions," he lists out-of-print editions of the Bible that are nicknamed for the typos that made them famous — or infamous.

Here's a sampling of the editions Lang lists:

—The Unrighteous Bible — an edition, printed at Cambridge in 1653, containing the printer's error, "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall inherit the kingdom of God?" (1 Corinthians 6:9).

—The Standing Fishes Bible — an 1806 printing in which Ezekiel 47:10 reads, "And it shall come to pass that the fishes shall stand upon it." It should read "fishers."

—The Wicked Bible — a 1632 English Bible that omitted the word "not" in the seventh commandment. It read, "Thou shalt commit adultery."

—The Printers' Bible — a 1702 printing which substitutes "printers" for "princes" in Psalm 119:161: "Printers have persecuted me without a cause."

—The Bug Bible — Coverdale's Bible (1535), which has this translation for Psalm 91:5: "Thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugs by night." (The King James Version has "terror by night.")

I found these, along with the rest of The Complete Handbook of Bible Trivia, to be vastly amusing. For the most part, though, errors in print make me irritated, if not downright indignant. I suppose my reaction has something to do with the fact that I learned to proofread at the age of 7.

My third grade English teacher taught her students to proofread as part of spelling lessons. I learned my lessons well; too well, I'm afraid.

Whatever the reason, I automatically proofread whatever I read.

I think the most irritating problems I've encountered are redundancies, oxymorons, and grammar errors that cry out to be corrected.

Redundancies include such gems as "10 a.m. this morning," "ACT test," and "refer back."

One I read in a press release was "transition period of change." The word "transition" means "change," so why do you need to say it twice?

Oxymorons — contradictory terms — are usually a good source of either amusement or irritation. A guy I once dated refused to say "Good morning" because he said it was a contradiction in terms.

Other oxymorons include "jumbo shrimp" and the ever popular "military intelligence."

Grammar errors are perhaps the most irritating of all.

My high school English teacher, Linda Lightsey, was insistent that her students learn proper written English. She dwelled on such grammar fractures as misplaced modifiers and non-agreeing subjects and verbs.

As a result, I simply cannot tolerate a misplaced modifier. As an example of what I mean, let's have a quick pop quiz.

Find the misplaced modifier in the following: "Unbeaten thus far this year, the victory was his seventh in a row and his tenth since September."

Have you found it yet? Okay, try this one: "A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Dartmouth, Pat Weaver's head is said to burst with ideas."

All right, time for the answers. In the first one, "unbeaten" seems to modify "victory," but it should modify a nonexistent "he."

In the second one, it sounds as though Pat Weaver's head, not Pat Weaver, is the Dartmouth graduate.

Okay, so I'm picky about my grammar. If you want to fuss, blame it on my excellent teachers — all of whom, by the way, taught me in Mississippi schools.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The Fitness Track appears to be gaining momentum once again with the warmer weather.

I have been able to get out and do a little exercising once again and I am seeing a lot of folks using the facility.

It would be interesting to know the number of persons who use the track during a one-week period.

Hilda Bourg's crew has been doing a fine job keeping the area mowed and really has the track shaping up.

The Chamber of Commerce and Bay-Waveland Garden Club's beautification project also appears to well "on track."

The benches and new trees all appear to be doing well and are adding to the beauty of the facility.

If you haven't visited the Fitness Trail, you do not know what you are missing.

The weather has been so beautiful in recent days that I haven't really been wanting to work.

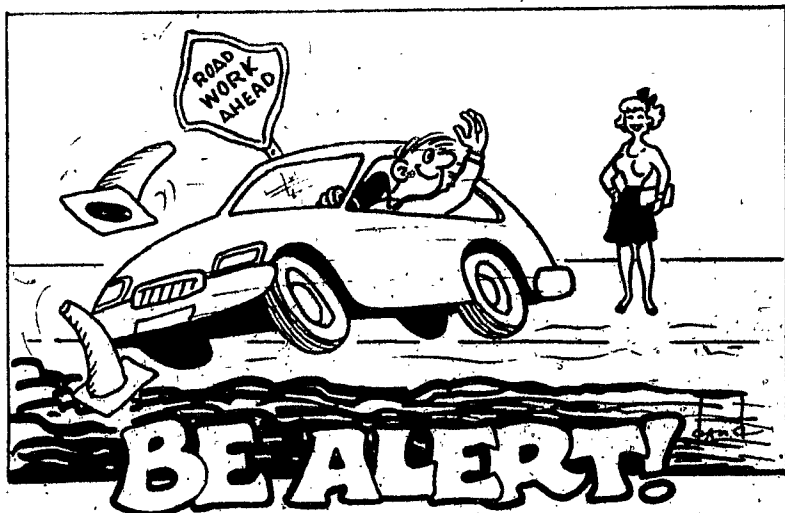

I have the itch to get out and work in my yard, or do a bit of fishing, something else besides regular work.

I saw a fisherman catch a small flounder while I was crossing the bridge last week.

It shouldn't be too long before fishing will be good once again.

In talking to some of my friends who fish, they say it should be good in a couple of weeks, that is if we do not get any more rain.

Good luck to those who try to catch a few fish.

There are few states with as much roadside beauty as Mississippi, and it's hard not to stare sometimes. Unfortunately, there are also few states with as much road site construction as Mississippi. Four workers and 25 motorists or passengers have been injured or killed in the past two years when drivers failed to exercise caution in a

MISSISSIPPI STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

by Sen. Vic Franckiewicz Jr.

Franckiewicz says House members tried to leave before work finished

During the final week of the session, we should have finished the legislature's business. As it turns out, we didn't finish, and the week wasn't final.

The House of Representatives tried to adjourn for the session while important legislation was still pending. They simply left town while we were still considering the BEST education package, the Anti Drug Abuse Act of 1990, gambling controls, and abortion clinic regulations. The state's constitution requires the House to return by Thursday, April 5, at which time we can resume the work of the legislature.

Despite this week's turmoil, there were some accomplishments. The BEST education program passed with Mississippi making history as the first state in the nation to enact a comprehensive restructuring of education.

From early childhood through adult education, the BEST program will lift Mississippi from the bottom of almost every social and economic list in the country.

The BEST bill is a great program, but it still isn't funded, and probably won't be until a special session. Unfortunately, most of the funding discussions so far have been aimed at increasing revenues. That approach is wrong.

We should fund the BEST program as our first budgetary priority, then fund lower priority programs with available revenues.

New funding sources may be needed, but they should not be enacted unless we cut back on unnecessary and inefficient state government. I hope that this will be the first agenda item for the special session.

In other business, the Senate passed a gaming commission to regulate gambling in Mississippi. This regulation is critical to control the riverboat and cruise vessel gambling now authorized by law. I think that the bill is not tough enough; it is too easy for criminal elements to work their way into legitimate operations. But the gaming commission is a start.

State income tax on retirement benefits has been an issue throughout the session. In response to a U.S. Supreme Court decision, we finally reached a compromise with the House to tax all retirement benefits equally.

Beginning with the 1990 tax year, the first $6,000 of any retirement income—federal, state, or private—will be exempt from state income tax. This represents a modest improvement for federal and private pensioners.

The bill equalizes future taxes, but ignores the refunds due to federal retirees for taxes collected illegally in the past. I have introduced legislation to address this point, but it is doubtful that the legislature will act until the 1991 session. By that time, we will owe well over $30 million in refunds.

It is a pity that the legislature is disregarding the state's obligation to federal retirees. It looks like the state will keep its head in the sand until a court yanks it out, slaps it around a bit, and forces Mississippi to pay up.

The open meetings law was revised to require public notice for recessed and adjourned, interim, or special meetings of public bodies. The notice is to be placed in a prominent place accessible to the general public in the building where the body normally meets. This manner will reduce the possibility of public bodies secret meetings.

The Public Service Commission was reorganized, and the commissioners and staff are now prohibited from receiving gifts and contributions from utilities regulated by the commission.

Secret and private meetings about contested cases are also prohibited. The bill restructures the commission's staff to provide an independent regulatory division separate from other commission functions.

We're still in session, so feel free to call me at the capital, 359-3770. On weekends, I can be reached at 467-2399.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Racism is war of greed for power; not skin color

Dear Editor:

Racism should be abolished... a hot topic in 1990. However, in our 2000 years of recorded history, no amount of laws nor preaching "Love Thy Neighbor" ever had much effect on prejudices.

In Europe there is much distrust of a unified Germany, fear of the German race. Rioting goes on in Bulgaria against those of Hungarian descent; many Soviet states have civil unrest with Christian vs. Moslem; the same in Israel and Lebanon.

So racism is not just a matter of skin color as some choose to believe, rather one of economic and/or religious suppression. It is a war of greed for power.

Only since World War II have Italians and Jews been accepted as members of New Orleans society, allowed in country clubs and carnival clubs—but no laws forced acceptance, money did.

Unfortunately, Civil Rights leaders misled their people into believing desegregation laws meant full equality, complete acceptance by society. That will never be true, we'll always have rich vs. poor, country (or yacht) clubs being selective and snobs in all races.

While Blacks are yelling for equal rights, they persist in re-segregating themselves all over again: Black-only beauty contests, acting awards, athletic awards, newspapers and radio and Black colleges.

These actions single them out as different, not a part of America's melting pot.

Racism should not be tolerated but for sure can not be ended through legislation. All races must rationalize there is room for everyone in this country, that is, all who are willing to contribute their fair share of work, love and understanding.

Bingo was recreation with benefits to many

Dear Editor,

In the past, I often wondered what was done with bingo revenues of the two American Legion posts after expenses were deducted.

Since becoming an auxiliary member of Post 77, I have learned of the charitable donations and worthwhile projects the legionnaires and auxiliary undertake.

Since the Legislature has given the go-ahead to gambling in the Mississippi Sound and on the Mississippi River, why is bingo being discriminated against?

At bingo, one can see the numbers on the balls as they roll out of the cage, no matter where you sit.

At the dice table you may not be quick enough to see if the dealer has a loaded pair of dice up his sleeve.

Going to bingo was the only recreation many of our senior citizens had.

Don't litter! Keep our city beautiful

To the Editor,

Keeping Bay St. Louis beautiful is everybody's duty! The measure of benefit to each property owner will be in direct relation of his or her effort.

Litter is a deterrent to beauty, lowers property values, drives away potential shoppers and discourages tourism. In addition, it is a definite health hazard.

The Mississippi State Board of Health has repeatedly warned of a possible outbreak of encephalitis, a disease carried by the mosquito.

By cleaning up old cans, bottles, junk tires and other litter, affording breeding places for the mosquito, it will materially help in control of the dreaded disease.

Many homes, places of business and communities are already attractive, but in some areas the reverse is true. Concentration in those areas of blight will add much to the overall appearance of Bay St. Louis.

Whether we like it or not, we as a people are judged by the appearance of our surroundings. Our highways, streets and roads are our living rooms to tourists.

Discourage litter-bugs! Plant trees, shrubs and flowers. Carry a litter bag in your car, truck or boat, and use it.

Do your part to help "Keep Bay St. Louis Beautiful."

Who would bear responsibility of gill net-related accident?

To the Editor,

After having read the gill net article by Dena Bisnette (4-1-90), I felt I should question who would be responsible in the event of a boating accident or a child drowning as a result of these nets in populated areas?

Such an accident would result in a suit against our governing bodies.

We've had experience with such suits in the past. As a result, the citizens of Hancock County had to pay extra taxes because of negligence.

IN CONGRESS

Sound economy, environment go hand-in-hand

A serious oil spill like the Exxon Valdez incident in Alaska could be devastating to South Mississippi's shorelines. Not to mention what such a pollution problem might do to the area's shrimp, oyster and other seafood producers.

More than any other state, Mississippi's economy depends on a clean environment. It's for this reason that I'm paying close attention to oil spill liability legislation.

Spurred on by the Exxon Valdez accident, the House considered a comprehensive oil spill package in the final weeks of the 1989 Legislative Session.

As part of the floor action, I voted with the House to enable states to better protect their citizens and shorelines from oil spills. Environmentalists insist, and I agree, that states should be able to enact stronger oil spill laws than that of the federal government and that federal law should not preempt more stringent state laws involving cleanup.

As part of the package, I voted to require oil shippers to exercise more care and judgment in the operation of tankers. Currently, oil companies are only held accountable for oil spills in cases of gross negligence or willful misconduct.

The new legislation holds companies liable for spills in cases of careless behavior and requires more safety in production. For instance, in the next seven years oil tankers will be required to have a double bottom to better protect waterways from spills and leaks. And within the next 15 years, the tankers will be required to have double hulls.

Now, I cast these important oil spill votes to protect the South Mississippi Sound and shores from a serious oil spill.

BACK TO NATURE

By Lydia Schultz

April 22 Earth Day focuses on protecting our environment

Special to the Echo
By LYDIA SCHULTZ

For months now we've been hearing about Earth Day 1990. If you don't know that April 22 is Earth Day...well, now you do.

This is the 20th anniversary of Earth Day 1970, when environmental concerns were born by 25 million participants.

There are hundreds of theories of how the environmental movement and Earth Day 1970 came about, but at this point who cares?

All we know is that it is safe to say that the radical environmentalists of the 70's have cut their hair, toned down their acts, donned their suits and moved into the corporate rooms where they can begin to practice what they preached. They are no longer in their twenties; they are in their forties and in positions of responsibility.

Being an environmentalist today is much easier than it was "back then." Even Wall Street acknowledges the chic stock of the future is in the environmentally conscious firms.

Planners for events of Earth Day 1990 want to ensure a global event. They want to ensure that we move into this decade dedicated to saving this planet. President Bush wants no less than one billion trees planted on Earth Day.

Almost every organization and town across the country has something planned. Bay St. Louis will not be left out, I can assure you. Watch the newspapers for specific events.

But you do not have to wait for Earth Day to join the "Green Movement." I could list 30 or more things right now that you can do every day. It requires that we live consciously, not unconsciously.

We must become aware of each action we take. What are the consequences? Will this styrofoam cup that I drink from affect generations to come? Do you get the point?

The planners of Earth Day 1990 operate on the premise that every individual can make a difference. Nontoxic, organic and natural are the wave of the future, and each individual needs to know about and live "green" policies.

Recycling, water conservation, composting, fuel conservation, protection of trees, habitats and all wildlife, organic alternative to pesticides, and much, much more are areas of concerns. We must become knowledgeable and aware. Conscious. Very conscious.

Acid rain, the ozone destruction, garbage, damaged and soiled beaches and species extinction are realities that we can no longer give just lip service.

As I walked early one morning along the beach, I noticed the trees bursting forth with their new leaves. The grass was growing through three inches of newly laid asphalt.

The symbolism of that grass growing through the asphalt is profound. Man has consistently tried to harness the earth for his own use and it has consistently tried to repair itself.

The decade approaching finds us now trying to work with our planet instead of against it. We will try to help it heal itself and the only way that we can succeed is if each and every individual joins in.

On a lighter, birdier subject, let me assure that even though the birds have been slow arriving, they will show up.

Every day someone asks me when will the buntings arrive. They are generally talking about Indigo Buntings; the one Grandma and Grandpa called "pops." It's the tiny blue bird not to be mistaken for the larger Eastern Bluebird that nests in the bluebird box.

So keep the faith. All of us binocular buffs along the Coast are eagerly awaiting our Spring "fix" of many birds but we know we can't rush Mother Nature. They'll arrive when it's just right for them.

Special Olympics set for Stennis Saturday

Special Olympians from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone counties will participate in the day-long event. Competition in standing long jump, softball throw, frisbee throw, 50-meter/100-meter run, and wheelchair races are scheduled for the 300 athletes.

A fishing clinic and frisbee throw will provide fun events.

Skydivers from Mobile, Ala., will thrill the crowd and the Keesler Drum and Bugle Corps will provide musical support and a lunchtime show.

An expected 375 volunteers will be on hand to handle the competition. They serve as coaches, scorers, timers, starters, escorts, food servers and official huggers.

Since then, the county has gone to a dumpster system operated by a contractor, Gulf Coast Waste, Inc., a temporary program originally expected to last only six months.

In an effort to reduce hauling and compacting costs, the county replaced about seven of the dumpsters from several sites with a convenience center.

The center is a fenced enclosure with onsite compacting equipment and is manned by a county employee who assists center users with any problems they may have, operates the compactor and keeps items other than household garbage from being dumped there.

Another center was opened on Monday at the corner of Washington and Chapman roads. Cuevas said both centers are open seven days each week, from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

But the requirement for stronger hulls and bottoms in the tankers could also mean more business for South Mississippi shipyards.

Unfortunately, the oil spill liability legislation has yet to be signed into law. Slightly different versions of the legislation passed in the House and the Senate and both houses are currently conducting compromise agreements, or conference reports.

You can count on my vote for stringent liability guidelines when the final version of the legislation comes before the House.

Smith launches campaign for 5th District seat

Sheila Smith, Long Beach businesswoman and widow of the late Congressman Larkin Smith, has announced her candidacy for Mississippi's 5th District Congressional seat.

Smith will be on the ballot for the Republican nomination for the seat in a primary election June 5. The general election will be Nov. 6.

Smith, 46, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lamney, was born and raised in Biloxi. She built a career beginning as a secretary to owner and manager of one of the most successful real estate agencies on the Gulf Coast, Sheila A. Smith Realty. Smith sold her business in 1988 to participate full-time into her husband's congressional campaign.

During her 15 years in real estate, she received numerous awards, including six Million

SHEILA SMITH

Dollar Gold Awards (1979-1985), two Diamond Awards (highest dollar volume in residential sales: 1982, 1984), two Ruby Awards (largest number of transactions in residential sales: 1983, 1985), and three Million Dollar Club, Round Table Merit Awards: 1986, 1987, 1988.

She is a past chairman of the Harrison County Republican Club.

Smith's daughter, Tracy, 21, and grandson, Bryce Anthony, one, reside with her in Long Beach.

"I have been a team builder, putting together families and homes, businesses and jobs," Smith said. "As a Congressman, I will be a tireless advocate for our people, for our district, our state and for our country."

Smith said she has been encouraged by many "friends, neighbors, Republicans and Democrats" who have called and written and asked her to run for her husband's former congressional seat.

"I've decided to step forward and accept the challenge of building on his outstanding record," Smith said, "to continue his crusade on behalf of this district, for our families, for a more prosperous future, for better jobs, better schools and safer neighborhoods."

"I have never been one to look back. I don't dwell on what might have been. I believe with every fiber of my being what we have all been taught—work hard, do what is right, help your neighbors, trust in God."

Smith said her campaign will be positive and will focus on four primary issues: education, economic diversification, enforcement of laws, and environment.

"I know that when people join together, great things can happen," Smith said. "We have succeeded in the past, whether it's rebuilding after a hurricane, overcoming the floods, or retooling our economy. We can succeed again, and we must."

Ammo Plant Training Officer Joe Fairchild, Pearl River County Community College Industrial Training Coordinator Alex Ross, and Mississippi State Employment Service's Stennis Space Center Office Manager Dale Newell.

During the 1980s, Hughes said, England has had a drastic and rapid drop in unemployment, which he said used to be "quite high."

Hughes is the equivalent of an area director for the Department, because England does not have a direct equivalent to the state agencies found in Mississippi. His region includes part of the London metropolitan area.

One difficult he is researching involves a shortage of labor trained in skills compatible with existing industry. It is not a nationwide problem, but it is a problem in several regions including his own.

In addition, the workers are less free to relocate than most workers in the U.S. due to a shortage of affordable housing in the areas where the jobs are.

England is about the same geographical size as Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas combined, but it has a population of $60 million people, leading its government to prefer encouraging mobility of English citizens.

who have the needed skills to importation of foreign workers, Hughes added.

"If you want workers, you have to go get them and retrain them from a very basic level," he said, explaining that the industries most in need of trained people are high technology, like information systems and anything to do with computers.

While he was interested in learning about the community college's training arrangements with Mason-Chamberlain when the plant first opened, Hughes said he had also benefitted from being able to see the program centering around the facility's impending closure.

"We have had some experience with a large number of dislocated workers," he explained, "and everything is being done right here."

He said the most effective techniques he had found include phasing in the lay-offs in order to provide more individual attention to out-placement attempts for the employees, partnerships among a number of agencies which can provide help and attempting to get other employees in the community interested in the employees who are being laid off.

The Mason-Chamberlain program includes orientation sessions for the workers, a resource center providing job listings and a telephone bank, on-site counseling from the state employment service, referrals to assistance agencies and training programs such as Job Training Partnership Act, and educational opportunities provided through Pearl River County Community College.

Bay Business Association slates Cajun concert in park

The Bay St. Louis Business Association will host a "Cajun Concert in the Park" Saturday, April 21, starting at 6 p.m. at City Park, South Second Street, Bay St. Louis.

The free concert will feature the music of Garland Moran and the Night Travelers. Boiled crawfish, gumbo and jambalaya and other refreshments will be available on the grounds.

Bring your blanket, lawn chair, and table with accessories, if you choose, to set up on the tennis court area. There will be plenty of room to dance.

This is a family concert and the playground will be open for additional entertainment for children.

The concerts in the park have become a highly anticipated event in the Bay. This will be the first of three scheduled for 1990 by the Business Association.

It is made possible through membership, donations and the assistance of the City of Bay St. Louis. All concerts are presented free of charge to the public.

Newell stated that the program has not been tried in this area before and has been operating for about three weeks. One aspect that increases the need for it is the fact that the majority of workers being laid off are unwilling or unable to relocate.

About seven percent are considered "job ready," he stated, and need only a basic readjustment period in which to find other work.

About 30 percent are expected to go into retraining programs, while the remaining 70 percent had other skills before working at the ammunition plant and went to work there during a period of declining economy which affected their regular job markets.

Ross stated that the retraining and educational aspects of the program could be spread through the state in order to cope with similarly large numbers of dislocated workers, using the junior college system as a service delivery route.

"This is an entirely new animal, what is happening here at the plant, and we hope to be able to use the program we have set up here to help us deal with similar situations in the future," he said.

"I'm very impressed with everything I've heard so far," Hughes commented after the meeting and a tour of the outplacement and resource facilities. "This is the kind of meshing together which is absolutely necessary for something of this kind to work."

ourselves rather than have it done for $60,000 or so. We could have done it, but we would have really had to restrict ourselves in other areas."

Two members of the board commented on the matter.

"We'll still have to do better than we've been doing," stated Beat One Supervisor Robert Peterson, who called the tall grass in some areas "a hazard."

"I've seen some places where the grass is so high on the corner it blocks your view down the street," he explained.

Beat Five Supervisor Michael Ladner also commented, expressing concern over the constant breakdowns of equipment and the cost they generate.

He suggested that the employees who operate the mowing equipment be briefed regarding the machines, because the breakdowns are unevenly spread among them and may be related to a need for training on the equipment.

Drobney named Genesis System vice president

Charles J. Drobney Jr. has been named vice president at Genesis System Inc., according to Walter N. Todd, president. His responsibilities will include overall management of the daily operations of the company, located in Bay St. Louis.

Drobney comes to Genesis from WJG Maritel of Memphis, Tenn., where he served as vice president. At WJG, he was responsible for the daily operations of WJG's inland stations.

He has a bachelor of science degree in engineering from the United States Military Academy in West Point, New York, and a MBA in management from the University of Cincinnati.

What to do if chest pain grabs your attention.

Don't wait to see what's going to happen next. By then it may be too late. Get help immediately.

Chest pain and pressure are heart attack symptoms. There are others. The pain may radiate down your arm, shoulders or neck. You may become dizzy, break out in a cold sweat, feel faint or sick to your stomach.

Sometimes only a few symptoms occur. Sometimes more. Sometimes the symptoms can even be due to another problem.

Only one thing is certain. The sooner heart problems are treated, the better your chance of recovering to live a full and productive life.

That's why we're here. The Heart Emergency Service at NorthShore Regional Medical Center is the first of its kind in this area. Located in our Emergency Department, we save lives by detecting heart problems rapidly and providing necessary treatment.

If you experience any symptoms of a heart attack, get immediate medical attention. Anytime, day or night, you can call our emergency 24-Hour Heartline™ at 1-800-HEART-13. An emergency care professional is available around the clock to answer questions, give advice or even dispatch an ambulance if necessary.

24-Hr. Heartline
1-800-HEART-13

The Heart Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center offers a complete range of cardiac care services. That's important to you during those first critical hours following a heart attack. And although you'll probably never need them, it's good to know our heart team is available 24 hours a day.

We employ powerful clot-dissolving drugs that can save lives by stopping and, in some instances, actually reversing the effects of heart attacks. But the sooner these drugs are administered the better the chance of a complete recovery.

Our advanced diagnostic capabilities, including a state-of-the-art cardiac catheterization laboratory, help us assess and treat heart problems more quickly than ever.

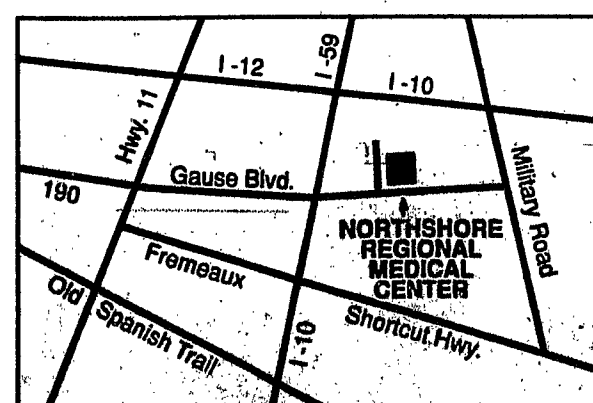

We also offer educational programs to help people prevent heart attacks, and rehabilitation services that help heart patients recover faster and more fully. Learn more about The Heart Center at NorthShore Regional Medical Center by calling (504) 641-MDMD and we'll send you a free brochure that describes our cardiac care services in greater detail.

Remember, if your heart tries to tell you something, pay attention. Grab the phone. Call 1-800-HEART-13. Or go to the nearest hospital emergency department. If you're close to NorthShore Regional Medical Center, use the Heart Emergency Service in our Emergency Department located just east of Interstate 10 on 190—Exit 266—Gause Boulevard. Right away. Before the problem gets out of hand.

Local student is optimistic about sailing championship

BY TRACI BONNEY

Mallory Mestayer is among ten United States youth participating in the South American Optimist sailing championships in Salinas, Ecuador, for the next ten days.

Mallory, a ninth grader at Our Lady Academy, will be one of about 80 entrants in the competition, which starts April 6 and ends April 16.

She began sailing at the age of eight and sailing competitively at the age of 10. This is her last year sailing the Optimist class competition.

"The calendar year you turn 15, you can sail until December 31," she said. "I turn 15 December 29."

The Optimist sailboat is a small one-person craft, measuring about seven feet long and weighing about 75 pounds, she said.

This is her fourth time to travel to another country for a sailing competition. She has sailed in Peru, Sweden and Canada.

She said, "This competition will be good practice for me. After I sail in South America, I'll come back to the United States and sail in a regatta in Clearwater, Florida.

"The top five in that regatta qualify to go to Portugal for the world competition. The ones who are sixth through fifteenth go to Germany for the European competition."

Mallory is one of two girls going to South America from the United States. The other girl is also a Southerner, from Miami, Fla.

She said she has been conditioning for the upcoming competition by working out, doing aerobics and running about two miles a day.

"People think sailing is so easy, but it's not. There's a lot of thinking involved, and you also have to be in good shape, especially when it gets windy."

Her mother will be going with her on this trip, which is her second to the South American championships.

"I'm hoping to see some of the people from last year. I met a lot of people then," Mallory said.

"We're just hoping to have a great time and get in some good sailing."

An autograph session with the Saints players will be included in the price of admission.

Funds raised by the game will be used to help finance various projects conducted by the Jaycees, a non-profit organization.

Bay High, Pearl River split 5-4, 4-3

The Bay High Tigers dropped a 5-4 game to Pearl River Central's Blue Devils last week but rallied Tuesday night to defeat the same team 4-3 in a second match-up.

Pearl River Central started the scoring in the Tuesday night game, leading off with three runs scored on two hits and two walks.

The Tigers then scored a run on a single by Calvin Thigpen and a double by Scott Barnes.

Thomas Brink averted a threat by Pearl River Central in the top of the second inning, when he made a shoestring catch to pick off a runner at second.

David Weems, Jamie Kingston and Chris Heaps contributed to the Tiger effort with a double play in the top of the fourth.

In the bottom of the fourth, Bay High batter Charlie Mitchell was hit by a stray pitch and awarded first base. Will Seymour, running for Mitchell, was able to score after Brink hit a single and Darrell Murphy added a fielder's choice.

The Tigers tied the score in the sixth inning after Mitchell led off with a single. Seymour, again running for Mitchell, scored on a sacrifice by Brink.

In the bottom of the seventh, the tie was broken after Scott Rogers hit a long shot down the alley between left and center for a double; Seymour, running for Rogers, was sacrificed over to third by Heaps.

Barnes clinched the game with the winning hit, a solid single to right field.

The game gives the Tigers a 1-2 record in conference play with a 3-4 record overall. Mitchell was winning pitcher for all three games.

In the Saturday loss to Pearl River, Brink touched off the first inning spark with a single, stealing second and advancing to third on a fielder's choice by Weems, but was not able to score.

Pearl River picked up one run on a single bunt and a triple in the bottom of the first.

Bay High went three up, three down in the second, but the Blue Devils had better luck, picking up another run.

Rocks take Tigers in tennis

The combined St. Stanislaus/Our Lady Academy tennis team continued to dominate the courts last Thursday taking five matches from the Bay High Tigers, upping the SSC/OLA overall average to 6-3.

In boys' singles, Myron Labat crushed Paul Compretta 6-1, 6-1; and in girls' singles, Kristy Heitzmann dominated Susan na Cameron 6-0, 6-1.

The boys' doubles team of Chris Delgado and Anthony Sperance overcame Termaine Labat and Trent Farve 6-3, 6-3.

Girls' doubles team Shannon Maggio and Jenny Keel defeated Jonelle Bufkin and Susan Long 6-1, 6-1.

In mixed doubles, the brother-sister team of Mike and Cathy Cromwell downed Miranda Smith and Yann Leroux 6-3, 6-3.

"The Bay High program is rebuilding," noted SSC head tennis coach Myron Labat, "and while we were able to win this match convincingly, Bay High does have some talent that will have to be reckoned with next year, and we look forward to some competitive matches." On Wednesday, the SSC/OLA team was slated to meet Hattiesburg, "one of the strongest teams in the state," according to Labat.

"They beat us 3-2 last month, and we may have to try some different combinations this time in an attempt to win three of the five matches," he added.

High river levels, heavy rains cause high oyster mortality in western Sound

Higher than normal water levels in the Pearl River, combined with excessive rainfall, has caused heavy oyster mortality in the western Mississippi Sound this year.

But oyster populations in the eastern Sound have been unaffected by the heavy influx of freshwater, Bureau of Marine Resources officials say.

Bureau biologists say the water levels in the Pearl River drainage basin were high enough in recent months to kill 80 to 90 percent of the oysters on St. Joseph oyster reef and 90 percent of the oysters on Wave land and St. Stanislaus reefs, all south of Hancock County. Tom Van Devender, BMR chief of saltwater fisheries, said the effect of the freshwater on Pass Christian reef was not as severe because most of the large oysters had already been harvested from the reef before the floods began.

Oysters require a delicate balance of freshwater and saltwater to survive.

A heavy influx of freshwater onto oyster reefs forces oysters to close their shells so they can't eat. If oysters keep their shells closed for a long period of time, they starve to death.

When too much saltwater flows onto the oyster bed it brings predators that eat the oysters.

Biologists say that, if no more freshwater flows into the western Sound in the next 45 to 60 days oyster losses may be stabilized on St. Stanislaus, St. Joseph and Waveland reefs, as well as on the Pass Christian reef.

Biologists say that another heavy deluge of freshwater occurs, it may destroy the remaining oyster population in the western Sound.

The freshwater which has already flowed into the Sound may even produce a higher oyster population on Telegraph Reef, south of Pass Christian.

Oyster populations on Telegraph Reef have been devastated by predators in recent years because of high salinity levels on the reef.

BMR biologists say this year's high freshwater levels will probably have a bad effect on next year's harvest because the oysters that are born this year would not have matured to legal harvesting size for the 1990-91 season.

But, if rainfall and river levels are favorable this year and next, the delicate freshwater-saltwater balance may be restored enough so that more oysters can survive to reach a harvestable size in the 1991-92 oyster season, producing a larger harvest.

Oyster mortality in the eastern Sound was not high, Van Devender said, because most of the oyster reefs in the eastern Sound are located west of the Pascagoula River.

"Water from the Pascagoula River tends to flow east, away from the oyster-growing areas," Van Devender said.

The last time a heavy influx of freshwater caused such a high oyster mortality rate was in 1983.

TOP RUNNERS in the St. Stanislaus 5K Bay Bridge Run were Brian Brooks, right, men's division, and Maureen Junio, women's division. Brooks, a SSC junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Brooks of Bay St. Louis. The Bay Bridge Run was sponsored by the Key Club with the proceeds going to the missionary work of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

Italian Open Golf Tournament brings festivities to PCI course

BY TRACI BONNEY
They ate; they drank. They visited with friends and made new acquaintances.
Oh, yes. They also played golf — or attempted to play golf.
The 16th annual Italian Open Golf Tournament, a highlight of the year for the Pass

VERNON WATTS

Christian Isles Golf Club, drew about 266 golfers, both local and snowbirds, to the PCI golf course for an afternoon of revelry and competition Saturday.
Golfers in red, white and green clothes of just about any style you'd ever see on a golf course scrambled around the 18 holes, making frequent stops at the "watering holes," refreshment tables set up at various points on the course.

At those tables, golfers feasted on foods Italian and non-Italian, and washed the snacks down with drinks alcoholic and non-alcoholic as they waited for their turns to make the first shot on the hole.

The tournament was broken into two shotgun start rounds, a morning one and an afternoon one. The afternoon golfers were hard put to finish before nightfall. Some didn't, but that didn't stop them from playing.

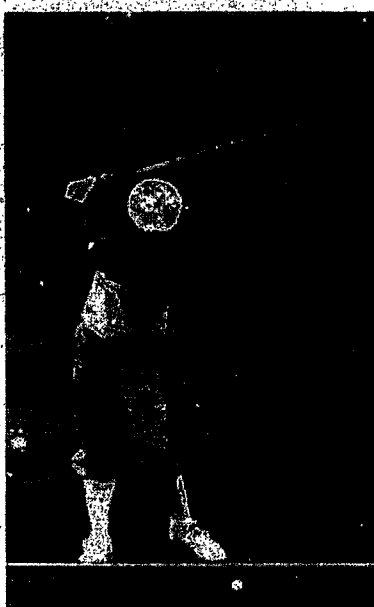

The contest was by name a best-ball tournament, but the formula used to compute final scores would make the bravest mathematicians cringe. Figure a best-ball event combined with the handicap of the players of the two-person teams, subtracted from their total score for the day, and you have the formula.

The winners were a husband and wife team from the Lake Carmel community of New Orleans, George and Joan Thibodeaux. They finished the day with a three-over-par round of 75, but by the time their handicap of 25.5 was plugged into the formula, they had a net score of 49.5, which was good enough to win.

George Thibodeaux said the 75 was their best score ever. The couple plays golf as a team only once a year, at the Italian Open.

Other winners included: —R. and C. Latadie, second.
—L. Wölken and J. Leblanc, third.

—John Rabalais of Pass Christian and Mike Johnson of Gulfport; R. Bourgeois and G. Noto; and J. Edwards and M. Palmer; tied for fourth.

The Tigers had a scoreless third inning, but Pearl River got another run on a walk and a Bay High error.

In the top of the fourth, the Tigers picked up their first run after Murphy was hit by a pitch.

Weems led off when the Tigers took their turn at bat in the next inning, drawing a walk. The next batter advanced him to second on a fielder's choice, then Murphy hit his first homer of the year, driving the ball into left center field to score runs for Weems and himself.

Chris Barlow scored after he got on base on an error, then Rogers drove him home. The Tigers closed in and took a 4-3 lead.

Pearl River, however, grabbed two runs on a three-bagger by the lead-off batter in the sixth inning, then picked up another three singles, posting a final score of 5-4.

Bay High travels to Hurley

Wednesday for an afternoon game against East Central, then hosts a twin bill at 4 p.m. Friday at Tiger Field.

BIOLOGICAL CLOCK

Time passes. Tick, tick, tick. Most people are aware of the internal clocks that, like it or not, silently guide our lives.

"The Infinite Voyage" explores "The Living Clock" beginning at 8 p.m., Wednesday, April 11, on Mississippi ETV.

Does time have some hidden effect on us? Is there a time-based impact on our bodies? Our minds? The way we live our lives?

"The Living Clock" features scientists who are specialists in chronobiology, the study of the human internal clock. Besides analyzing the real-life effects of our biological clocks, these scientists are developing treatment designed to reset and correct clock malfunctions. The implications of these discoveries are far reaching, affecting people with serious illnesses, from cancer to jet lag.

Pass Christian VFW Ladies Auxiliary raises funds for cancer aid, research

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Ladies' Auxiliary to VFW Post 5931 exceeded its goal of $1,000 this week in a two-day fundraiser for cancer aid and research.

The group held a soup and salad bar/bake and rummage sale at the post in Pass Christian Wednesday and Thursday to raise the money, which goes to aid cancer victims through grants and to advance research into the causes and cures for cancer.

Lois Haltom was the chairman for the fundraiser.

Auxiliary member Norma Cantrell said 10 percent of the money raised goes to fund cancer research in Mississippi, while the other 90 percent goes to the national organization of the VFW Ladies' Auxiliary. That money is in turn given to the American Cancer Society, research laboratories throughout the United States and cancer victims who receive grants to help cover medical expenses.

She said any Ladies' Auxiliary member who is diagnosed by a physician as having cancer may apply for a grant. Three members of the Ladies' Auxiliary in Pass Christian have applied for grants this year.

The Diamondhead Garden Club staged its annual Flower Show in the Community Center March 20-21 in conjunction with the Diamondhead Pilgrimage.

In keeping with the show's theme, "A Day in the Life of Ima Gardener," the day began at 'Sunrise,' featuring designs in silhouette, and ended at midnight with 'Sweet Dreams,' a class of small designs, sized eight inches or less.

Top design honors went to Margaret Hill, who received two Creativity Awards, Alvis Guillory garnered the Tricolor Award, and Gerri Garberg earned the Petite Award.

Ima's Garden featured more than 200 horticultural exhibits of which Ann Neff's lush hanging basket of English ivy was judged the most outstanding entry in the show,

Pass Christian Garden Club Pilgrimage

The home of Thomas Parker in DeLisle was one of the highlights of the Pass Christian Garden Club Pilgrimage held last week. In the photo to the right, Tom Parker and Mrs. Andrew J. (Virginia) Wyly of Diamondhead engage in an animated conversation while she visits Parker's home. The day was a busy one for both visitors and hostesses. In the lower right, the Parker House hostesses take a minute to pose for a photo. Pictured, from left, are Shirley Doe, Joyce Parker, Katy McGuire Caire, Joyce Schoenberger (seated) and Bertha Giani. Refreshments abounded at the Parker home, and garden club members donated their time and talents both in the kitchen and behind the teapot. Below, Mrs. Peter Schmid, first vice president of the Pass Christian Garden Club, pours a cup of tea for a visitor.

MICHAEL CROMWELL AND WILLIAM JENNINGS

Cromwell, Jennings are St. Stanislaus Star student, teacher

Brother Paul Montero, principal of St. Stanislaus High School, announced that senior Michael Cromwell has been named as the school's Star Student by the Mississippi Economic Council's Student Teacher Achievement Recognition Program.

The selection was based on the student's high scholastic average for the first semester and his score on the American College Test. Cromwell selected William Jennings as the Star Teacher because, in Cromwell's opinion, he had made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

Cromwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cromwell of Pass Christian, is president of the National Honor Society. He is captain of the Varsity tennis team, and he was named to the Mississippi Academic All-State Team in basketball.

He is an Alpha Honor Roll student and a member of the President's Honor Roll. He has maintained a 4.0 average throughout high school and was selected Pepsi Student of the Month in three separate years.

He is captain of the Science and Math Team, captain of the JETS Competition Team and captain of the Physics Competition Team.

He is a member of the French Honor Society and the Mu Alpha Theta Math Honor Society. In state competition he scored in the top 10 percent in biology and physics.

He is planning to attend Tulane University to study chemical engineering.

Jennings, a native of Bay St. Louis, has been teaching for 22 years. He earned a bachelor of arts degree, a bachelor of science degree, and a master of arts degree from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He presently teaches sophomore, junior and senior computer science at St. Stanislaus, and he is moderator of the school's Student Council.

Environmental awareness poster contest slated

Students interested in participating in the Earth Day 1990 celebration are invited to enter the Project Marine Discovery Earth Day Poster Contest.

Terese P. Collins, Earth Day special project coordinator, said that cash prizes will be given to the top six winners in four grade level categories of the contest.

The Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory are sponsoring the contest to teach children about the environment and ways to protect and enhance it.

Earth Day 1990 will be observed across the country and around the world on Sunday, April 22 with a wide variety of programs and activities. This year's celebration marks the 20th anniversary of Earth Day, the beginning of organized environmental awareness and action in the United States.

The theme for the poster contest is "Think Globally, Act Locally."

"Posters should reflect solutions to problems facing the earth which can be reinforced in the local community, such as trash recycling, or how our actions affect the health of the earth," Collins explained.

Prizes will be awarded in grade categories K-3, 4-6, 7-9 and 10-12. Awards in each category will include one, $25 first prize, two $15 second prizes and three $10 third prizes.

Posters should include only original artwork done on poster board of any color limited to 22 x 28 inches in size. The back of the poster should include the student's name, grade, address, phone number, teacher's name and school.

Deadline for entries is 4 p.m. on Tuesday, April 17. Entries may be brought to the Marine Education Center at 115 Beach Blvd. in Biloxi or may be mailed to Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, P.O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39564.

For more information, contact Collins at 374-5550.

ON ETV

"Break of Dawn," the remarkable true story of America's first Spanish-Language radio and recording star, who was eventually sent to jail by corrupt politicians on false charges of rape, will have its television premiere on "American Playhouse" Wednesday, April 11, at 9 p.m., on Mississippi ETV.

Wendy Colson takes first place in environmental poster contest

Arick Hedin, a sixth grade student at N. E. Taconi Elementary in Ocean Springs has been named the grand prize winner in the Scranton Museum's "Stash Your Trash" Environmental Awareness Poster Contest.

The third annual contest was open to grades kindergarten through sixth, statewide. A poster submitted by Ashley Wells of Bayou View Elementary in Gulfport was the overall runner-up.

Scranton Museum director David Ruple said, "The contest through art is designed to promote an increased awareness of Mississippi's natural resources and the environment."

"An environmental awareness by our young people is vital to insure that our natural world will be protected in the future. This year's theme, marine debris, concentrates on a critical global environmental issue."

The contest is part of the museum's marine debris educational program.

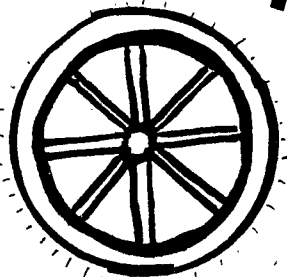

Winning posters are on display at the Scranton Museum in Pascagoula now through April 29.

The poster exhibit will be a part of the museum's April 22 Earth Day celebration. Regular museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 1-5 p.m. on Sundays.

Local first place winner in grade three was Wendy Colson

Miss. Power establishes Barton award for teachers

The Mississippi Power Foundation has established an award in memory of Mississippi Power Company President Alan R. Barton who died last October.

The Alan R. Barton Award for Excellence in Teaching recognizes outstanding teachers in Mississippi. The award replaces the foundation's Scholar Awards that have been given annually since 1986.

Barton was president of Mississippi Power Company, which is headquartered in Gulfport, from 1980 until his retirement last July.

"This award was established so that the life of Alan Barton will be forever linked with providing educational opportunities in Mississippi," said Huntley Biggs, chairman of the foundation. "He was committed to and had an awareness of the need for quality educational opportunities for all Mississippians."

One of Barton's most significant contributions to education was establishing the Mississippi

Power Foundation, Inc. in 1984. This independent, non-profit educational foundation has awarded more than $600,000 in grants to educators throughout Mississippi.

The award honors four outstanding Mississippi teachers each spring. Educators may be nominated by school superintendents, principals, teachers, and parents.

They are judged on personal involvement with students' learning, and their ability to develop self-motivation and self-confidence in students.

Nominees also are evaluated on their interest and enthusiasm for teaching. Recipients and their schools each receive $500 and a plaque.

The foundation has received a $10,000 gift from the Barton family in recognition of the appropriateness of honoring Mr. Barton's memory with an award to teachers.

"Alan worked to improve education publicly and privately. He felt teachers were the foundation of a good education," said Sue Barton. "We are proud that the Foundation has decided to honor him in this way."

The first recipients of the award were honored March 30.

Huynh is Geography Bee finalist at PCMS

THUY HUYNH AND MELISSA HARRIS

Thuy Huynh, a seventh grade student at Pass Christian Middle School, was selected by the National Geographic Society to compete on the state level in their second annual National Geography Bee.

Thuy first won the school level bee held at Pass Middle School during the week of Jan. 29. She then took a written test and scored well enough to place among the top 100 finalists.

State Geography Bee were held throughout the nation and in five U.S. territories on March 30.

The National Geographic Society with its co-sponsors will provide an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, D.C., for state champions and their teacher escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee finals on May 23 and 24.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States.

A 10-country Gallup Survey conducted for the society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the U.S. ages 18 to 24, the youngest group surveyed, knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries.

Welch competes in geography bee

TERRY WELCH

Terry Welch, an eighth grade student at Coast Episcopal High School, competed at the state level of the National Geographic Geography Bee.

Welch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Welch of Long Beach, first won at the school level and then through a written exam, earned the right to compete at Mississippi College in Clinton along with 100 other finalists.

Diane Page, CEHS geography teacher, accompanied Welch to the state finals.

The winner of the state competition will travel to Washington, D.C. for the national finals May 23 and 24.

FRESHNESS IS SECOND NATURE TO US.

When you care about produce the way WINN-DIXIE does, freshness just seems to come naturally. You see, we take the item to sort all our fruits and vegetables so that you have your pick of the cream of the crop. And we know just about all there is to know about caring for produce. Like which vegetables need water, which like ice and which fruits are ripe when. Plus we make a special effort to offer you a variety and abundance of each season's best. That's why we're proud of our produce and that's why we can call it Harvest Fresh from WINN-DIXIE. Nature makes the produce. WINN-DIXIE makes the difference.

PRCC

BY DENA BISNET
Pearl River Community College is attempting to raise monies for a retraining program for laid-off Mississippi Army Ammunition workers. If approved, the money will be provided in the form of a grant.

ACADEMY EXPANSION

Diamondhead Preparatory

BY DENA BISNET
Diamondhead Academy, established just five years ago, is ready to begin construction on a permanent building. The land for the project is being cleared and dirt work is being done. The slab is expected to be poured by the end of the month and part of the steel for the 17,000-square-foot structure is already on the site. The school is presently housed in a pair of temporary buildings and has about 30 students from kindergarten through sixth grade, according to President Lenore Smith. After the construction of existing classes can be ended and an expanded pre-kindergarten program can be added, the Academy Board President George Cassis said. Smith explained that the school facility, when completed as part of the addition, will receive the expected recognition from the academy board that they had hoped for.
